

Writers SA Media Kit — 2021

Writers SA

Writers SA exists to help writers realise their creative and professional dreams.

We are a not for profit membership organisation that aims to foster a creative community of writers, support a strong writing industry, contribute to a diverse writing culture and we strive to be the best organisation possible.

We exist to give members access to a network of other writers, professional advice, and information and opportunities to support them in all stages of their writing journeys and careers.

Our members

Writers SA is the only writing organisation of its kind in South Australia.

Our members are writers and those in the literary community.

Our writers are New York Times, USA Today and Australian bestsellers.

They are professionals who consistently publish in the Australian and overseas markets.

They are aspiring and emerging writers, who have had success with publishing in literary journals, the mainstream media, in fiction and non-fiction, in children's literature, in poetry, in literary fiction, in YA, crime, memoir, romance and history.

We engage with writers across the age spectrum, from teenagers through our Teen Writers Club, to seniors writing family histories.

Our demographics

Writers SA has a loyal and steady membership base of about 1,000 members and we deliver news about South Australian writing to more than 5,000 subscribers through our weekly e-news.
