Writers SA

Writers SA—South Australia’s peak organisation for writers and writing, has been supporting writers, showcasing literature, and fostering a culture of writing since 1985.

We are a not-for-profit membership organisation, acting as a resource for writers of all ages and experiences, assisting both new and established writers on every aspect of writing craft and publishing.

We exist to give members access to a network of other writers, professional advice, and information and opportunities to support them in all stages of their writing journeys and careers.

Our members

Writers SA is the only writing organisation of its kind in South Australia.

Our members are writers and those in the literary community.

Our writers are New York Times, USA Today and Australian bestsellers. They are professionals who consistently publish in the Australian and overseas markets.

They are aspiring and emerging writers, who have had success with publishing in literary journals, the mainstream media, in fiction and non-fiction, in children’s literature, in poetry, in literary fiction, in YA, crime, memoir, romance and history.

We engage with writers across the age spectrum, from teenagers through our Teen Writers Club, to seniors writing family histories.

Our demographics

Writers SA has a loyal and steady membership base of about 1,000 members and we deliver news about South Australian writing to more than 5,000 subscribers through our weekly e-news.

We maintain above industry-average open and click through rates.

Our e-news offers news of our workshops, upcoming literary events and opportunities, author talks, book launches and member-only offers including competitions and discounts on our workshops and events.

More than 1,200 people attend our workshops each year, which run from January to December.

Our social reach is strong.
